Königsweg – (The King's Road, which is named after König Wilhelm I)

The idyllic path near the lake, overshadowed by tall trees, leads from Friedrichshafen to Fischbach. The Königsweg was the connecting path between the castle and the agricultural domain in Manzell. The path leads past the historic castle bridge to the Baroque Palace Church, the landmark of Friedrichshafen, and on to the recently opened shoreline path.

Approx. 5 km, paved and natural path.

Panoramaweg Ailingen (scenic path Ailingen)

Starting from the town hall in Ailingen, via Unterlottenweiler and towards Horach, this path leads to the highest point of Friedrichshafen which offers a beautiful panoramic view over the lake and the Alps. Past the Höhlerösch, a protected wet meadow, you arrive at the Haldenbergkapelle (chapel), which is situated on top of the Haldenberg with probably the best view in Friedrichshafen.

From the chapel, you walk past idyllic meadows down to the Fasanenweg, then on to the Haldenweg and the Gartenstraße, which leads you straight to the small park by the town hall. This route, as well as other hiking routes around Ailingen, can be found on the hiking map of Ailingen which can be obtained from the Tourist Information Ailingen. Approx. 9 km, paved and natural paths.
